STUDY FINDS LIARS HAVE WAY MORE SEX

In a study released last week by the Stanford Psychology department, it was found that those who identify as compulsive liars were found to have way more sex than the average individual.

"This is actually a shocking finding," said Howard Fentburn, professor of behavioral psychology and lead of the study. "We hypothesized that liars would have less sex by a statistically significant amount, mainly because nobody likes a liar."

However, the results proved the opposite. We got in contact with Joey Sagat, the undergraduate responsible for all the bitchwork, to find out more about the study. "I conducted over 400 interviews across campus with both liars and non-liars. The liars had way more sex, and I mean by a lot. And we found that across all dimensions, in number of partners, types of sexual activity, and how crazy the stories were, the liars just dominated."

In order to find out whether the subjects were liars, the interviewers simply asked. No one was critical of this procedure.

It was found that the average non-liar had had two sexual partners in their lifetime, and the average liar had had sixty-four.

HOROSCOPES

Want to know how this new year is going to go before it happens? Here at the Flipside we've taken some effort to peer into your future for you:

Aries: Today is no different than any other day. Despite your best efforts to improve your life for this new year, you will fail miserably. Things next year will be the same as this year, and most likely worse considering how badly the stars are aligned against you.

Taurus: You will litter today. It will haunt you, but there is nothing you can do to avoid it. Litter is your destiny, your fate.

Gemini: Your refusal to learn the definition of cosmic irony will come back to bite you this week when you attend a dinner party on a cruise ship named "Blissful Ignorance."

Cancer: This week, you will inherit the Earth. Live large, go all out, eat a burrito, fly a kite--the sky's the limit and the world is in the palm of your hand. You are the cat's meow. People listen to you--make them regret it.

Leo: Steer clear of cottage cheese this week. Shit's gross.

Virgo: Take the red pill. It's ecstasy, and it's fantastic.

Libra: One of the horoscopes you read today will come true. Not this one, though.

Scorpio: You will make a new friend this week. You will mistakenly give your phone number to this friend, who will then bother you for hours on end. This won't slow down at all until police get involved.

Sagittarius: The stars suggest that you are like their good friend, Pluto; you used to be cool but now you aren't. Today, you should probably sign up for World of Warcraft, move into your parents' basement, and become the bitter recluse that the stars say you should be.

Capricorn: Let it all hang out this week. And by "it" the stars don't mean your genitals, pervert.

Aquarius: Tonight, you're a shining star. Your Pea Coat is sleek and your hair is freshly cut. You'll be the life of the party, the one everybody wants to be around, and the one who gets the chicks at the end of the night. It is only tomorrow when you'll realize that the girl you took home was your cousin, who was driving your drunk ass back to your parents' house, and that she refused your advances because incest is gross and so is the vomit you sprayed all over her new dress. Tomorrow, your memory will fail you, and for this you should be thankful.

Pisces: This year you will celebrate a birthday, most likely between the dates of February 19 and March 20. You will know it's your birthday because dozens of people you don't really give a fuck about will write something dumb like "happy birthday" on your Facebook wall, while your real friends (who are your friends because they have lives outside of Facebook) will not know it's your birthday. Then your real friends will feel awkward when after talking to you for an hour on your birthday, someone you don't know wishes you a happy birthday, while on a 10 minute break from Facebook.

God Awkwardly Forgets Son's Birthday

According to scriptural and journalistic sources, God forgot the December 25th birthday of his first and only son, Jesus Christ of Nazareth, for the third time in the last 2,000 years.

"I got really tied up with a bunch of Christmas stuff this year," God relayed to Flipside reporters through a chorus of angels, "I had a ton of presents to shop for, I was behind on answering work e-mails and prayers, and I had a bunch of relatives staying at my house and raising holy hell."

Despite the glaring oversight, Jesus was adamant in forgiving his father. "I love him unconditionally and I completely absolve him of his sin."

God did claim a more legitimate excuse this year than in the past, including when he missed his son's birthday in 800 AD for the coronation of Charlemagne and in 2003 for the Die Hard movie marathon on TNT. He did, however, admit that this was his most shortsighted mistake since he forgot to TiVo Tim Tebow's first game in the NFL.

The almighty deity is trying to put a positive spin on the whole ordeal, noting that the cards in the "Belated Birthday" section of Hallmark are much more funny than those in the "Son - Messiah and Savior of Mankind" section. God also plans to set things right by sending a Chipotle gift card in the mail. (Hoffer)

The number of votes by which Mitt Romney defeated Rick Santorum in last week's Iowa Caucuses. Also the total number of votes Mitt Romney received in last week's Iowa Caucuses. Santorum received zero votes, as did every other candidate, proving that it's actually impossible to make it through the whole caucusing process and still care enough to vote.

Is caucus a funny word?
