IN WANING DAYS OF PRESIDENCY, BUSH TURNS ATTENTION TO PRESIDENTIAL LIBRARY

As President Bush prepares to hand over the White House to Barack Obama, he is devoting more of his energy to shaping the legacy he will leave behind for future generations of Americans. The George W. Bush Presidential Library will be situated next door to the Presidential Library of the elder Bush, "So that visitors can get a 2-for-1 sort of deal," said a White House spokesperson.

The highly secretive Bush administration has generously promised that a number of its documents and records will be available to the public, although it is likely that they will be completely incinerated beforehand. Indeed, the Library will contain rather limited reading material: W. Bush favorites Go Dog Go, the Patriot Act, and an unknown Dr. Seuss book comprise the entirety of the written archives.

Bush has hinted that some unique exhibits will be incorporated, including real weapons of mass destruction from Iraq, a shooting range with Osama bin-Laden targets, and a small-scale replica of the Guantanamo Bay Facility (with live detainees). The architect's plans also show that Bush's approval ratings will be showcased on the walls, although most of them will be turned upside-down to present a more favorable view of the President's tenure in office.

Obama Names David Plouffe to Head New Department of Spam

WASHINGTON, D.C.—In a historic move keeping with campaign practices and marking the growth of electronic communication, President Elect Barack Obama has announced the creation of a new Department of Spam, to be headed by David Plouffe.

Plouffe is known for his unremitting emails to supporters, sometimes numbering in the tens per week, asking for donations and forwarding video clips of ads and campaign speeches.

"I have great confidence in David," said Obama at a press conference announcing the decision. "He has shown time and again that he is has the shamelessness and persistence to spam millions of Americans many times a day, breaking through even the toughest spam filters."

On the Hill, where the appointment will have to be confirmed by the Senate, some lawmakers questioned the decision and pick.

ate a department of spam?" said Senator John McCain, notoriously computer illiterate, who believed at first the department had something to do with the canned meat product Spam. "What's next, ambassador to Hillshire Farms and a Department of Bacos?"

The new department will be responsible for sending superfluous emails to Americans. "David's role will change very little from the campaign," said Obama. "Our first action will be to spam the country about a drawing we're having for new contributors," said Obama. "The winner will get to pet our new puppy."

"The American people can rest assured: just because their retirement accounts are empty doesn't mean their inboxes have to be," said Plouffe. "I look forward to continuing to work with President Elect Obama on the important task of filling your inbox with crap."

NUMBERS

The number of songs that continue to be downloaded illegally daily in the United States. Unfortunately, that means that the new Recording Industry Association of America policy has altered the internet using behaviors of a total of three people nationwide. This also means that thousands of lawyers filing litigation against illegal downloaders of music will be out of a job. Time to move on to more important litigation like tort reform.
