

HEADLINES

Dogs Love TSA Pat Down Agents

Local Student Travels to Congo For Volunteer Project of Letting People in the Congo Use His iPhone

TSA Travel Update: Ebert and Roeper Give Terror Level Two Thumbs Up

Stanford to Meet Electricity, Heating Needs by Harnessing President Hennessey's Raw Sexual Energy

In an effort to remain a leader in environmental sustainability, Stanford has announced plans to capture and use University President John Hennessey's raw sexual energy to meet the campus's ever-growing energy needs. Similar to wind or solar power, the plan relies on a converting a naturally abundant, renewable and seemingly limitless source of energy into a usable form such as electricity or heat. The administration is confident that this new project, assuming Hennessey keeps with his current exercise regimen and diet, will meet 50% of the university's energy needs when it goes into effect in 2012.

President Hennessey emits raw sexual energy

"I realized I just had to tap that... I mean tap that potential for clean, renewable energy."

The idea for the project was reportedly hatched late one night at a Board of Trustees meeting. The board had been arguing about ways to reduce the university's carbon footprint; frustration was quickly building and everyone just wanted a timely and satisfying resolution and they found it in the President's voluptuous figure. After hours of debate, Hennessey stood to remove his jacket before undoing the top button on his dress shirt and loosening his tie ever so slightly as a hush fell over the room. They had an answer. One board member said of the moment, "I've always found John to be a very attractive older man, but I mean [shivers]...that night it just hit me. I realized I just had to tap that...I mean tap that potential for clean, renewable energy."

The Hennessey Project is part of a larger initiative to "green" Stanford's image that also includes riding bikes instead of driving and putting "these come from trees" stickers on paper towel dispensers in bathrooms. Said one board member, "We want make Stanford sustainable for the future and I'm confident that can we ride President Hennessey all the way to that goal. Oh, and the potato forks...yeah those are really going to help too." (Doherty)

Review of Activision's Call of Booty: Black Cops Video Game

Cover for the new Call of Booty game. This soldier is about to find massive booty.

Call of Booty: Black Cops is a first-person shooter with stealth and tactical play aspects that puts players in the role of an African-American cop looking to have sex with a large variety of women. Created with the input of actual black cops, the game mixes traditional Call of Booty tactical gameplay with new gameplay options designed to expand the players' experience.

Additional features include extensive multiplayer options, along with new weapons and even more realistic looking penises. Now with over forty different missions, Call of Booty provides hours of entertainment for the whole family.

Three booty calls in a row earns you a booty streak reward: more booty. Add in a community of several hundred thousand online, and the variety only gets better. The bottom line is this: if you like black cops and you like booty, then Call of Booty: Black Cops is the game for you. (Kravitz) check out new content every day online at stanfordflipside.com

Terrorist Nervous On First Day as Suicide Bomber

Luke Patterson, an Al-Qaeda operative from Colorado, reportedly feels "really nervous" on his first day as a suicide bomber.

"What if they make fun of me for wearing a hand-me-down bomb vest?" said Luke. "Not everybody's daddy can buy them new bomb vests, and I don't wanna make a bad first and last impression."

Luke's mother made several attempts to reassure him, including rubbing his tummy, singing "You Are My Sunshine," and making him a peanut butter and jelly sandwich with the crusts cut off "just the way he likes it."

"Don't you worry about a thing, my little bundle of honey-chuckles," said Mrs. Patterson. "I'm sure your first day is gonna be a blast!"

Despite Mrs. Patterson's best efforts, Luke remained nervous.

"I just hope I can make it through the day in one piece," said Luke. (Evans)

THE FLIPSIDE PUZZLE CHALLENGE IS NOW ONLINE!

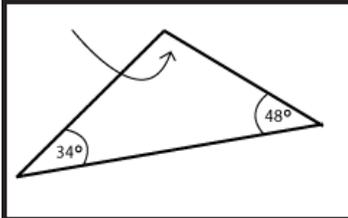

Go to stanfordflipside.com to submit your answers to the puzzle challenge. The first solver will win a Flipside shot glass!

Last week's winner: Bridget Vuong

QUOTE: "You can see people naked? How can I get a job for the TSA?!" - John Doe, American

REBUS PUZZLES

Can you guess the common word or phrase portrayed below?

last week's answers: JK ROWLING, MUGGLE, DIVINATION, ALBUS DUMBLEDORE

NUMBERS

2,000,000,000

The total number of pounds gained by Americans on Thanksgiving this year. Knowledge of this statistic has caused an overwhelming number of British people to move to the U.S. hoping to strike it rich. Unfortunately, the U.S. economy has not been able to handle the large number of British migrants, so most British-Americans find themselves working for minimum wage in textile plants.

Simon says, "Check out stanfordflipside.com!"

CRYPTOGRAM CHALLENGE

This is a simple substitution code. Each letter is replaced by a different letter. Try to decode the message or quote below. HINT W = S

Z KJWWNINWE NW FTJ YAF IZQJW HNPPNDSBENJW FP ANW FKKFVESTNENJW, ZTH
 ZT FKENINWE NW FTJ YAF IZQJW FKKFVESTNENJW FP ANW HNPPNDSBENJW. -AZVVC
 EVSIZT

LAST WEEK'S ANSWER: IT IS A CURIOUS THING, HARRY, BUT PERHAPS THOSE WHO ARE BEST SUITED TO POWER ARE THOSE WHO HAVE NEVER SOUGHT IT. -ALBUS DUMBLEDORE

SUDOKU

Fill in the grid so each column, row, and 3x3 box has the numbers 1 through 9.

Level: Preteen

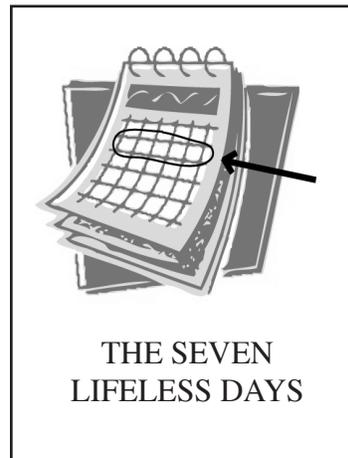

8			5	1				9
	3					2	5
	5			4	3			1
					9			8
		1				9
4			6
6			7	2				9
	4	8						1
5				8	6			7

SUDOKU PROVIDED BY SUDOKU-PUZZLES.NET

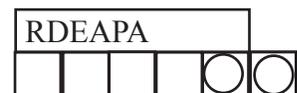

The Stanford Flipside is a weekly satirical newsletter. Our stories are fictional, but we make jokes about real issues. Our goal is not to offend you, but to make you laugh and to reframe our world to point out the absurdities. Anyone is free to join the Flipside, and we would love to have you! We meet Tuesdays at 4pm to brainstorm. Contact flipside@stanford.edu for more information.

JUMBLE

Unscramble these four ordinary jumbles, and use the letters in circles to answer the final question.

THE SEVEN
LIFELESS DAYS

LAST WEEK'S ANSWERS: WITCH, GHOST, CHARMS, DRAGON what they called the cap with OCD tendencies SORTING HAT

Editorial Board: Jeremy Keeshin, Zach Galant, Adam Adler, Laney Kuenzel, Eric Karpas, Brendan Weinstein, Stephanie Weber