

Flipside Fall Class Preview

You're about to sign up for classes, but don't know what to take? Let us help you out.

MATH 451: Counting to a Million: In this class you will count to a million with a group. Attendance mandatory. No final project. We will progressively count higher for ten weeks.

MATH 102: Applied Addition: Students will learn the basics of Applied Addition. Students should be really good at writing the 'plus sign.' Students will work on cutting edge applications like 3+5 and 2+2. By the end of the class, students will be comfortable with intermediate word problems like: "If there are 2 people here and 4 people over there, how many people are there in total?"

FEMST 101: A Class With a Ton of Girls in It: Introduction to interdisciplinary feminist scholarship, and focus on inequity of gender enrollment. This class will have many more girls than guys. Contact professor if you are a male interested in taking this class.

CS 34: Tetris for Non-CS Majors: Introduction to playing tetris for non-computer science majors. This class will walk through the full game of tetris, from starting a game, to completing a row, to winning the game. Will cover advanced piece rotation if time permits. Grading: Credit/No Credit

CHEM 74L: Meth Lab. Students meet once a week for 3 hours to learn the basics of operating an illegal meth lab. Must be taken concurrently with CHEM 74: Introductory Chemical Engineering or have consent of instructor.

PIGLAT12: Onversationalca Iglatinpa: uidentsta illwa earnla asicba iglatinpa. erequisitepra: PIGLAT 11.

Campus Gang "The Freshman 15" Terrorizes Stanford

You can recognize them by their gang-sign: arms crossed holding up one finger on one hand and five on the other.

Based in Cedro, they call themselves "The Freshman 15." It's a group of 15 slightly overweight freshman who have been wreaking havoc all over campus. The Freshman 15 have been seen riding around on their bicycles in a pack stealing other dorms' flags, and texting during the Three Books Presentation.

Fellow freshman from J-Ro, Claire Whitman, told Flipside reporters she felt scared every time she saw the gang biking around. "They just look so intimidating with their lanyards on," she said trembling. "After 1pm, I only leave my dorm with an RA escort."

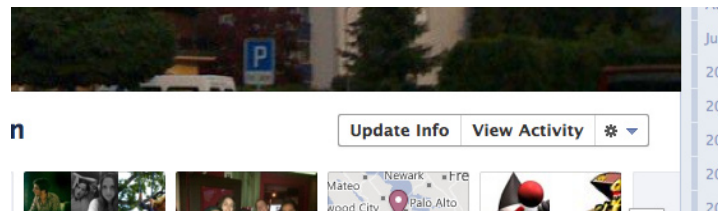

Gang members, like Tree-Diddy, Lil' C, and Hewlette Wayne flash the Freshman 15 sign.

"All we do is eat snacks and drink beer, but not during NSO," said gang member Coby Hoover, AKA CoHo Fo' Sho.

Facebook Introduces the New New New New Facebook

We tried to make this image look good, but we just hate the new Facebook.

Earlier this week, Facebook began rolling out its newest round of updates. In an exclusive interview with the Flipside, Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg revealed that the update offers "All sorts of new ways for people to connect with their friends." According to Zuckerberg, the biggest feature of the New New New New Facebook is a Timeline which allows people to completely freak out when what information is on the internet about them.

Facebook users are predictably up in arms over the changes. Just as with the 2006 introduction of the News Feed and again with the 2008 rearrangement of the sidebar icons, groups like "1 million strong against the New New New New Facebook" are gaining steam. At last count, the largest of the groups had tens of members.

Michael Bertini, creator of the largest of these protest groups, stated that he would like to see a return to the Original New Facebook or the old New New Facebook, circa 2004 and 2005 respectively, though he recognizes that this is not a position which is shared by a majority of his group. "Most people just want to go back to the New New Facebook, but at least that's a step in the right direction."

Facebook officials were quietly pleased that only 100 million users absolutely hated the new changes, and hinted that much bigger changes were on the way. "We've got the users right where we want them," said Zuckerberg. "Once we get users comfortable with the New New New New Facebook, we'll be unveiling the New New New New New New Facebook." ## NUMBERS

17 Million

The number of people who will have to rethink their entire lives due to the fact that neutrinos may be faster than the speed of light. This means that everything we ever thought we knew about science could simply be wrong. And that at any moment, everything might explode. It's very unlikely, but if we were you, we would be pretty careful.
